Course description

Learn2b courses are free of charge to anyone who lives with (or has experienced) a mental health disorder. Diagnosis is not essential. Tutors, who are selected specifically because of their own experiences of mental health illness will support you through a variety of teaching and learning in a safe and welcoming environment. All tutors are qualified in subject matter and passionate about the principles of Learn2b. This course is devoted to the exploration of therapeutic aspects of visual arts. We will explore three ways of using creative arts for improvement of mental health and wellbeing. You will explore an intuitive approach to expressive and creative arts in order to connect with your deeper self and meaning. No art experience is required prior to the course.

Outcomes

1. Open up to possibilities of using creative arts in therapeutic ways and understand the difference between creating art for the result and creating art for self-expression.
2. Feel encouraged to use more creativity at home and gain confidence in the use of self-expressive arts to improve emotional wellbeing.
3. Work with a selection of artistic techniques.

How will the course be taught?

This is a creative workshop course that is based around practical input by the learner, supported by the tutor.

What do I need to bring?

A pen and notebook may be useful if you would like to make notes. You should bring reading glasses if you require them as there will be a little bit of paperwork to complete. If the course takes place over a whole day then you should bring a light lunch with you.
