Course aim

This 6 week course takes a closer look at the development of the Northamptonshire landscape and countryside over time. The sessions will examine different aspects of the landscape looking at when, how and why it changed. The course includes a mix of archaeology, history and geography, introducing participants to some of the resources that are used and available to those interested in studying their local landscape in greater detail.

Course Outcomes

1. Recognise how and why changes can take place in the landscape and the importance of the conservation and protection of areas of ancient and historic field systems and woodland.
2. Compare components of the modern landscape, identifying parts which may have ancient or historical value.
3. Formulate an informed perception of the local landscape.
4. Identify the processes that are involved in studying and recreating past landscapes.

How will the course be taught?

Face to face teaching.

What do I need to bring / have ready?
