Course aim

This course is an introduction to the world of ancient Rome and the Roman Empire, which at its height stretched from Scotland to Syria. The course aims to explore what it meant to be Roman, drawing on examples from the ancient city of Rome and the broader Empire it looks at a range of topics including religions and beliefs, architecture, public life and entertainment, the Roman army, life in the cities, towns and countryside, and trade and industry. The course is divided into two sessions with a break for lunch (not provided), and will be of interest to those who would like to know a bit more about the Roman world.

Course outcomes

1. Recognise the impact of Roman culture and society across the Empire.
2. Assess the role of the Roman army not only as an invading force but as defenders of the Empire.
3. Develop a working knowledge of Roman trade and commerce.
4. Identify the location of interesting sites and monuments and national museums where important collections are held.
