Be a Better Gardener

This course is part of a series of short courses that aims to help you become a better gardener, whether you are just starting out or already have well-developed 'green fingers'. For more information about the series please see the final section of this document.

Course aim

To provide you with the knowledge and skills to grow your own food plants - both vegetables and soft fruit - whether you have a large garden or a small outdoor space.

Course outcomes

- a) To understand the soil and other conditions required for successful growing of food crops.
- b) To choose which crops to grow to suit the available space and conditions, time available, and personal taste
- c) To describe the techniques used to grow perennial vegetables, legumes, brassicas, salad leaves and soft fruit..
- d) To describe the techniques used to care for, store and use a range of crops.

How will the course be taught?

If this is an online course, please check the email confirmation for the link to join your Google Classroom. This information is also on 'My Account' when you are logged in to the Adult Learning website. Find 'How to use Google Classroom' at <https://getgoing.nccadullearning.ac.uk/it-tips/google-classroom>

What do I need to bring / have ready?

A pen and paper. Ideally a computer or tablet to access the Google Classroom - to download session handouts or to use the interactive additional materials. Course study materials are available on the course Google Classroom - if you are unable to use the Google Classroom site because of disability please advise when booking or tell your tutor in advance of the first session so adjustments can be made.

Further information

This course forms part of a series of courses for new gardeners, or experienced gardeners who would like to brush up their knowledge or get a new perspective. The aim is to introduce the techniques of gardening, and the reasons why we do things in a particular way to get good results. There is a particular focus on environmentally sensitive gardening, but this is a series for all gardeners.

The series covers the following areas (select the ones that are appropriate for you - no need to do them all):

- a) The Healthy and Sustainable Garden. (6 Weeks)
- b) New Plants for your Garden (propagation) (5 weeks)
- c) Grow your own vegetables and fruit (7 weeks)
- d) Your ornamental garden (6 Weeks) starting 2024/25
- e) Introduction to Garden Planning and Design. (6 Weeks)
