Tutor: Mr Mike Curtis

Course aim

This course traces the history of the Greek civilisation through its sites and monuments, archaeological discoveries and finds. The course draws on the rich material culture of the evidence, looking at the discovery and finds from sites like Myceanae and Knossos, the city of Athens, the royal tombs of Vergina, Delphi and other sanctuaries of the gods. This is a good introduction for those considering visiting Greece or who are curious about ancient Greek history, culture and society.

Course outcomes

1. Recognise the different types of ancient monuments surviving in the modern landscape.
2. Assess the role of arts and crafts within ancient Greek society.
3. Develop a working knowledge of the development of Greek society and culture.
4. Identify the location of the main ancient Greek sites, monuments and national museums.
