What will I learn?

Discover how to take stunning photos using just your smartphone while reconnecting with the world around you. This workshop encourages being active and creative, exploring the nature -space, whilst learning photography on your smartphone. At the end of the workshop, participants will be able to exercise control over their smartphone's camera in an outdoor/daylight setting along with applying foundational principles of composition and aesthetics to their photography. Learners will also be able to edit their images using in-camera controls and create a thematic picture set.

The workshop is set at an introductory level and invites participants to enjoy the benefits of being active and creative in an outdoor setting, document and explore the nature -space using the smartphone's camera, edit individual pictures and compile a thematic view -set of their images.

What will I need to take part?

Please wear comfortable clothing and shoes for light walking, bring your smartphone (any model welcome ensure it has a working camera), phone charger, notebook is optional but may be useful, and a curiosity and a willingness to explore.

What to expect

Your tutor will start by guiding you through how to set the camera controls, subject choice, composition, aesthetic considerations and using apps, followed by a two-hour photographic exploration of the location - concluding with an introduction to on-screen picture editing and tips for creating a picture -set. Tutors use Google Classroom to help make course resources available both during and between sessions. Please take advantage of joining your Classroom when invited to do so. Where can it lead to?

This course is perfect for anyone who enjoys being outdoors, wants to get creative, or is looking for a mindful activity to improve wellbeing. It is a great introduction to the range of creative courses adult learning has to offer, including Smart Phone Photography for Beginners, or Digital Photography. The course may encourage you to explore new places and become more active, overall benefitting your physical and mental wellbeing. Your tutor will also be able to advise on next steps and progression opportunities after the course.
